Process

The key to driving real value from any technology investment lies in process improvement.

3 HTi specializes in helping companies realize incremental value by helping push through the “knowledge barrier” to build incremental value from process improvement. By employing various services such as contract staffing, employee education and implementation consulting, our clients use 3 HTi to achieve a significant return on their technology investment.

Our experience has shown it is imperative to describe information fully and accurately early in the development process. Additionally, it is critical to build systems to ensure that modifications are captured and communicated during each phase of development, so that all stakeholders in the process are working with the most up-to-date information. 3 HTi can assist in developing systems and processes to improve communication and accuracy.

Technology

Over the past several years, companies have invested significant capital with great hopes and vision. In many cases, however, technology has been implemented and only a portion has been fully utilized. 3 HTi has the experience to help our clients fully apply technology to improve the return on their initial technology investment.

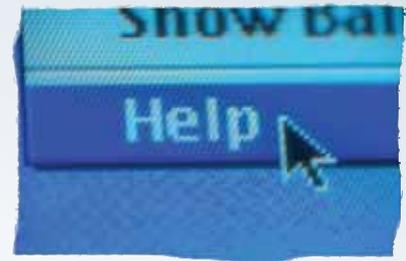

Training

Our facilities are consistently bustling as our certified trainers instruct another group of students how to use technology to achieve their business objectives.

Although our instructors are certified to teach most classes, we place special emphasis on delivering classes that are typically unavailable elsewhere. This includes certified PTC training, including Pro/ENGINEER Wildfire Update, sheetmetal product design, production drawings, milling sequences, advanced design and analysis, and more.

In an effort to provide the deepest level of service to our clients, 3 HTi is proud to offer training in a variety of environments, including:

- In-Center Training
- On-Site Instruction
 - Instructor-Led Distance Learning
 - Mobile Training Labs
 - Web-Based Training
 - Deskside Coaching

Consulting

3 HTi employs a "spiral" methodology to consulting, with each consulting engagement consisting of a number of distinct phases. As each phase is completed, knowledge is transferred to the client staff to promote self-sufficiency.

Our proprietary process includes a thorough "discovery" phase to consulting, where relevant issues and opportunities are identified and a detailed solution is presented to the client. Upon completion of the discovery phase, our consultants immediately begin to achieve results, initiating process improvements and transferring intellectual capital to the client. Our consulting services include:

- Product Development Process Audits
- Software Implementations
- Manufacturing Integration
- Data Management
 - Design Standards
 - Product Lifecycle Management
 - Supply Chain Integration
 - 21 CFR Part 11
 - Best Practices
